Local police nab alleged fraudster 'Nephew Bandit'

Arrested in hospital. Accused of conning money out of elderly, acted as distant relative

KATE WEBB
kate.webb@metronews.ca

Canadian law enforcement's five-year game of cat-and-mouse with a man known as the "Nephew Bandit" ended Wednesday when Vancouver police arrested 57-year-old Richard Earl Rupert in hospital.

Rupert had 18 warrants out for his arrest stemming from alleged frauds targeting the elderly in cities all over Ontario, Alberta and B.C.

He has been profiled on America's Most Wanted and on CTV's W5.

"It's alleged Rupert sought elderly victims, befriended them, and gained their trust by pretending to be a distant relative," said police spokesman Sgt. Randy Fincham.

"Rupert then conned them out of their money with a promise of repaying the debt."

Fincham said Rupert was arrested in hospital, where he had been using the assumed name Jerry Whitehead.

Because of privacy laws, Fincham was unable to explain why Rupert was in hospital.

"He's a coward and he should be caught and put away," said one of his alleged victims, Jane, in a 2010 interview with America's Most Wanted.

He allegedly went into her seniors' centre and told her he was a building manager and there had been a change in her rent. She went to the bank and withdrew hundreds of dollars.

When they returned to her lobby she became suspicious, and he allegedly grabbed the cash and pushed her down.

Rupert faces charges of theft, robbery, break-and-enter, fraud, impersonation, being unlawfully in a dwelling house and attempted fraud.

According to America's Most Wanted, Rupert began his criminal career at 14 years of age by robbing seniors along his paper route.

He is thought to have had at least 100 victims and stayed one step ahead of police for so long by not using credit cards or a cell phone.

Tickets for pot would be 'a tool well used': Police chief

Cases involving less than 30 grams. Jim Chu says proposal would save money for police and courts

kate.webb@metronews.ca

Vancouver police chief and president of the Canadian Association of Chiefs Const. Jim Chu continued his campaign on Thursday to pressure Ottawa to give police the power to issue tickets for possession of marijuana.

He called a press conference in Vancouver after returning from the association's annual meeting this week in Winnipeg, where a resolution was passed to ask the federal government for the new tool for cases involving less than 30 grams.

"It's difficult for us to apply any form of consequence, because to take a charge of possession to the courts requires lots and lots of paperwork, and it actually can take the officer off the road for several hours," Chu said, waving a form more than 20 pages long.

"We think our proposal will save money for ... police officers, and also the courts, who arguably have other, more serious matters to deal with."

Vancouver's force is something of a bubble of tolerance toward marijuana possession, with a 2011 charge rate of 30 per 100,000 people — less than half the national rate of 81 per 100,000 people, according to Statistics Canada.

But provincewide there were more than 3,580 charges laid for simple possession in 2012, according to the pro-decriminalization Sensible B.C. campaign. That is nearly double the rate of charges in any other province.

Prominent legalization activist Jodie Emery said it is positive Chu talked about the "disproportionate" impact criminal charges for pot can have on people's lives, such as placing barriers on future travel, employment and citizenship.

But she is not sure whether the measure might result in a "cash grab" by some forces.

"It's within the realm of possibilities that police will now do a serious crackdown and start ticketing everybody, and again, punishment for pot shouldn't exist at all," she said. "But when I look at it, any sort of reduced punishment is better."

When asked whether Vancouver police would be less likely to turn a blind eye to possession given the ability to ticket, Chu said he believes it would be "a tool well used."

In response to the chiefs' position, Justice Minister Peter MacKay said in an email that the federal government has no intention of decriminalizing marijuana. WITH FILES FROM THE CANADIAN PRESS

Garbage-addicted white bear won't be shot: Officials

A pair of white bears is seen in Elkford. COURTESY KRISTY ANONSON

It looks like a rare bear with a taste for garbage in eastern B.C. won't be killed after all.

The female bear is one of two cubs seen in Elkford last year. Similar to the famous Kermode bears, they are black bears with white fur and are otherwise known as "spirit bears."

After getting into one too many garbage cans, the cubs were trapped and relocated 80 kilometres north to Alberta's Kananaskis Country. However, one of the bears re-appeared in Elkford last week, sparking concerns that it may need to be put down.

"She's back and she's getting into garbage," said Duncan McDonald, Elkford's public works superintendent. "From the looks of it, she's pretty hungry."

From a bear's perspective, rifling through our calorie-rich garbage is far more efficient than scavenging for berries. However, if they become habituated to human contact, they can be dangerous.

"They get hooked on the easy food, and there's no going back," said Kathy Murray, a regional co-ordinator for the B.C. Conservation Foundation. "And what's worse is that our odour remains on the garbage, so they learn to associate humans with food."

As a result, the B.C. Conservation Officer Service destroys more than 500 bears every year.

There were doubts the Elkford bear would be given another chance, but Murray spoke with conservation officers Thursday and said the animal would either be relocated again, or brought to a wildlife facility. LUKE SIMCOE/METRO VICTORIA

Brothers cycle across five continents in 508 days

Trip of a lifetime.
Pair says world's not as dangerous a place as the media portrays it to be

EMILY JACKSON
emily.jackson@metronews.ca

When two Vancouver brothers tried to cycle around the world in 2011, their trip was cut short by a pair of machete-brandishing bandits who stole their cash and most of their belongings on a Honduras roadside.

But the incident didn't stop Kevin Hansen, 31, and his brother Trevor, 33, from hitting the pavement again in 2012.

Five continents, 41 countries, 508 days and 58,000 kilometres later, the brothers are back home after successfully completing their trip from Victoria to the Maritimes, across Europe, through the Middle East and China, down to Australia, across South America and through the U.S. on the home stretch.

"If we were going to do something again, we might as well do the whole thing," Kevin said in an interview Thursday, feeling a bit odd to be resting instead of cycling.

The brothers, the elder a software developer and the younger a banker, made the trip "for the sake of it, for the challenge," Kevin said.

They did it on the cheap, spending $15,000, by sleeping in tents almost every night and shopping at grocery stores instead of going to restaurants. Overseas flights and bike maintenance were their largest expenses.

The biggest challenge was ensuring they had the proper visas to travel through the Middle East, Kevin said, but the trip went quite smoothly apart from a five-day holdup from food poisoning and an incident in which Iranian officials mistook them for spies and temporarily confiscated their electronics.

The snow in China made for a difficult trek, and Canada was the coldest place to sleep. But Thailand made up for it with its flat roads, sunny skies and abundant 7-11s.

The brothers, who finished their journey by climbing Cypress Mountain to enjoy the city views, were most surprised by the hospitality they received in Iran due to the bad press the country gets.

"We want to put the message out that the world's not as dangerous a place as the media shows it to be," he said.

Bear encounter.

Speedster on motorcycle ends up with concussion

A motorcyclist appeared to be too busy pointing a helmet camera at his speedometer as he rocketed down a B.C. highway to notice a bear running across the road right into his path.

"There's no reason to expect the bear to come out and yet the bear came out and the motorcyclist almost killed himself," RCMP Cpl. Robert McDonald said.

Footage of the accident captured on the helmet cam has been posted online by the RCMP in an effort to warn distracted drivers.

"He's going from zero to 140 in less than 20 seconds," McDonald said, describing the images.

"You can see that he is focusing on the speedometer when the bear is already into the roadway, so he's distracted by filming. When he finally looks up to see the bear at 140 kilometres, there's not a lot of time to (react)."

McDonald said the man, who has not been identified, suffered a concussion and several broken bones. He said it is unclear whether the bear was injured or even hit by the motorcycle.

Helmet cam footage of a black bear moments before the motorcyclist skids out of control. CONTRIBUTED

"There are no signs of impact on the front end of the motorcycle. The mirror was broken from falling over and (there are) scratches on the motorcycle from skidding down the road, but we couldn't see any signs of impact."

McDonald said officers tried to find the bear but were unsuccessful.

Infectious diseases

Parents urged to vaccinate kids before school

B.C. authorities are asking that, before sending youngsters to kindergarten, parents make sure their children's vaccinations are up to date.

At age four, children should get booster shots to protect them against polio, tetanus, diphtheria, chicken pox and whooping cough, according to a Vancouver Coastal Health statement issued Thursday.

Vaccinations are the best way to protect children against serious childhood illnesses, but VCH medical health officer Dr. Meena Dawar is concerned that the vaccination rate dropped 11 per cent in the VCH region and five per cent in B.C. over the past seven years.

"As we saw with the recent measles outbreaks in the Fraser Valley and on the North Shore and Bowen Island, these diseases are highly infectious and can spread quickly among those who aren't vaccinated," Dawar said.

Landlords ‘shocked’ by tenants’ harassment claims

Downtown Eastside. Residents accusing Living Balance of ‘renovictions’

Residents say they’ve been threatened to leave a Downtown Eastside apartment building to make way for richer tenants, but the York Rooms owners say they’re trying to fill rooms after evicting a dangerous drug dealer.

Owners of the 36-unit building were “shocked” by allegations they bribed or otherwise harassed people to leave the building at 259 Powell St.

“That’s not true,” Living Balance spokesman Geoffrey Howes said on Thursday. “We don’t want people to leave because we have 12 empty rooms. What would be the purpose?”

B.C.’s residential tenancy branch approved the eviction of one tenant for selling drugs and unreasonably threatening residents and disturbing the building.

Living Balance, which owns more than 400 single-room-occupancy apartments in the neighbourhood, has dealt with gentrification complaints before, but nothing has fundamentally changed in the building since major upgrades in 2011.

The new managers do have more of a “hipster flare,” Howes said, but the majority of the rooms rent for $425 to $475 and there hasn’t been a philosophical change.

Yet the Pivot Legal Society and DTES housing advocates held a news conference on Thursday asking the city to protect the seven allegedly harassed residents from what they see as “renovictions.”

The building’s Tumblr site is proof of an attempt to attract non-low-income residents, lawyer DJ Larkin said in an email. The city should stop counting SROs as low-income housing if it cannot, or will not, stop the “full scale revamping,” she said.

But if landlords such as Living Balance didn’t repair the rundown apartments, there would be even fewer cheap places to live downtown, Coun. Kerry Jang said on Thursday.

The real problem is affordability, Jang said, noting the province has raised welfare-housing rates ($375 per month) only once since 1992.

“We’re very cognizant of the fear (the Downtown Eastside) could be turned into a yuppie enclave,” Jang said. “If he didn’t renovate, the place would fall down, but if he does it, the rent will go up a bit.” EMILY JACKSON/METRO

Some residents at 259 Powell St., a low-rent, single-room-occupancy apartment in the Downtown Eastside, say they’ve been forced to leave, but the building owners say that’s not the case. EMILY JACKSON/METRO

Stanley Park, Vancouver's crown jewel, celebrates its 125th anniversary this weekend. KATE WEBB/METRO

Stanley, it's your birthday! Happy birthday, Stanley!

Happy 125th, old gal. Take part in the jubilation with two-day soirée featuring more than 200 events

JEFF HODSON
jeff.hodson@metronews.ca

One of the world's great urban parks marks a significant milestone this weekend as Vancouver celebrates Stanley Park's 125th anniversary.

And this will be no dusty, dry affair.

Celebrate Stanley Park is a free two-day bash that features more than 200 events — music, sports, walking tours, even opera — in five festival zones located throughout the park.

"Stanley Park has been a part of the city's fabric and history for 125 years," said Joyce Courtney, manager of communications with the Vancouver Park Board.

"Its history is intertwined with that of the city.... It has a very special place in the hearts of people. "

The creation of the 400-hectare park was the first act of Vancouver's inaugural city council in 1886. It officially opened on Sept. 27, 1888, and today receives more than eight million visitors annually. TripAdvis recently crowned it world's top park, ahead of New York City's Central Park.

The programming, Courtney said, was a "grassroots" collaboration with stakeholders and First Nations, to reflect the heritage, culture and nature of the park.

For the music lover, Live at Second Beach features an all-Canadian lineup that includes the Arkells, Born Ruffians and The Matinee (there is also a beer garden).

Other acoustic performances, by the likes of Glittering Kingdom, Late Thaw and City Opera, will be held at Lost Lagoon.

Family Fun, including children's performers Bobs and Lolo, face painting and Coast Salish dancers will be held at Lumberman's Arch.

Rugby and cricket demonstrations are at Brockton Oval (dubbed Brockton Sportsapalooza). Historical tours and theatre will take place at the Rose Gardens.

The price tag for the two-day celebration is $600,000, of which the city is paying $200,000 and the park board $50,000. The feds chipped in $90,000 and the remainder was covered by corporate and media sponsors.

Let UN look into chemical-weapon allegations: Chief

Syria. Head of United Nations calls on government to allow investigation into reports chemical weapons killed at least 100 people

Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon on Thursday called on the Syrian government to allow a UN team now in Damascus to swiftly investigate an alleged chemical-weapon attack outside the capital that killed at least 100 people.

UN deputy spokesman Eduardo del Buey said Ban remains "deeply troubled" by the alleged attack on the eastern suburbs of Damascus on Wednesday and believes it needs to be investigated "without delay."

Syrian anti-government activists accused President Bashar Assad's regime of carrying out an attack using toxic gas and have reported death tolls ranging from 136 to 1,300. Even the lowest figure would make it the deadliest alleged chemical attack in Syria's two-and-a-half-year civil war.

Del Buey said the secretary-general "takes positive note" of the UN Security Council meeting Wednesday that backed his initial call for "a thorough, impartial and prompt investigation."

He said the secretary-general has been in touch with world leaders since Wednesday and is sending UN disarmament chief Angela Kane to Damascus to press for a UN investigation.

Denial

The government has denied that it used chemical weapons, calling the allegations "absolutely baseless."

Montrealer. Man convicted of human trafficking after 2011 abduction of girl, 17

A 23-year-old Montreal man has been convicted on human-trafficking charges in Ottawa.

It's the first time someone has been convicted under human-trafficking laws in the country's capital since they were added to the Criminal Code in 2005.

Jamie Byron was accused of abducting a 17-year-old Windsor girl from her home in 2011, and forcing her to perform sexual acts on more than 100 men over a two-month period.

Byron was caught by an undercover Ottawa police officer.

He is due back in court on Sept. 6 to set a sentencing date.

Justin Trudeau: Yes, he inhaled

And he's not apologizing. Liberal leader says marijuana prohibition policy costs law enforcement $500 million a year

Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau answers questions from the media in Quebec City on Thursday. FRANCIS VACHON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Justin Trudeau says, yes, he's inhaled a few times and, yes, he was already a member of Parliament the last time he did and, no, he has no regrets about it.

The Liberal leader laid out his past marijuana use in an interview and in an exchange with reporters Thursday in which he made no apologies.

He said he's smoked pot five or six times in his life — including three years ago during a backyard get-together — and never really liked it much.

Now that he's come clean about using pot, he said, he'd like to move on and talk about the hundreds of thousands of people who have a criminal record for it.

Trudeau sought to shift the focus onto his policy of legalizing marijuana when asked by reporters about his drug use and whether it had been a mistake.

"No, it wasn't a mistake," Trudeau told journalists in Quebec City.

"I do not consume cannabis. I am not a big consumer at all. I tried it.... I've never tried other types of hard drugs. I am not a consumer of marijuana but, yes, I've already tried it. I used it — maybe five or six times in my life."

He said he believes public opinion has moved on and he's confident that Canadians will judge him less harshly than his political opponents.

What matters now, Trudeau said, is ending a marijuana prohibition policy that he says costs law enforcement $500 million a year and has left 475,000 people with criminal records since the Conservatives took office in 2006.

He has said that issue touched his own family.

Trudeau originally made the marijuana admission in a candid interview with the Huffington Post, in which he also revealed that his youngest brother, Michel, was charged with marijuana possession shortly before his 1998 death in an avalanche.

Woman dies from injuries in shark attack

A 20-year-old German woman who lost her right arm in a shark attack off of Hawaii last week has succumbed to her injuries, her family says.

Jana Lutteropp was the first person to die from a shark attack in Hawaii since 2004. The incident is drawing attention from state officials, who say they're getting calls from the public asking if beaches are safe. At the same time, they hope a new study will close gaps in scientific knowledge about shark movements around Maui.

Abducted teen texted killer

TV interview. Hannah Anderson said she confided in James Lee DiMaggio, 40, about troubles with her mom

A California teen whose mother and brother were killed by a family friend said on national television Thursday that she once confided in the man about troubles with her mother and explained text messages exchanged on the day of the attack.

Police say James Lee DiMaggio abducted Hannah Anderson and fled to the Idaho wilderness before he was killed by authorities.

Caught in a nightmare

"A victim in every sense of the word."

San Diego County Sheriff Bill Gore describes Hannah Anderson, whose mother and brother were killed by a family friend who then abducted her. Hannah went online two days after she was rescued and answered questions.

In her first interview since her dramatic rescue August 10, Hannah didn't say how her family died or describe her interactions with DiMaggio during the manhunt.

The girl said she wrote to DiMaggio a year ago and he guided her in a rough patch with her mother. "Me and him would talk about how to deal with it, and I'd tell him how I felt about it, and he'd help me through it," she said. Hannah also said she exchanged text messages on Aug. 3 with DiMaggio before she disappeared about where he should pick her up.

Christina Anderson, 44, was found dead near a crowbar in the garage of DiMaggio's home. The remains of Ethan Anderson, 8, were also found. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Licensed Medicinal Marijuana Patients Needed

Focus Group: "Medicinal Marijuana Patient Needs, Usage and Consumption Patterns" • $75.00 per participant

Health Canada Medicinal Marijuana Access Regulations (MMAR) are undergoing a shift in its structure with new regulations being put into effect spring of 2014.

As part of that shift, Agrima Botanicals is applying to secure one of the available government issued licenses to produce, manufacture and distribute medicinal marijuana as part of the new Health Canada MMPR program structure.

Agrima Botanicals is conducting a series of focus groups to learn and understand the needs, consumption and usage patterns of licensed medicinal marijuana patients within the soon to be launched Health Canada MMPR program.

If you are an official Health Canada licensed medicinal marijuana patient, we would like you to join a small group of other Health Canada licensed medicinal marijuana patients to help us gain insight and feedback in order to effectively service this segment of the market.

Rob Ford 'can't wait' to arm-wrestle the Hulkster

A little over the top? Controversy-plagued Toronto mayor to take on his 'hero' Hulk Hogan in friendly match at city's Fan Expo

Toronto's mayor often takes on the media, but on Friday morning he'll face an even more intimidating opponent — his "hero," Hulk Hogan.

Rob Ford says he "can't wait" to arm-wrestle Hogan in a friendly event.

The legendary shirt-ripping wrestler will be in Toronto for Fan Expo, where he is set to hold an "uncensored" question-and-answer session on Friday evening.

But first, the 14-time wrestling champion will arm-wrestle Toronto's mayor, Ford's spokesman announced on Twitter.

"The Hulkster ... he's a good guy," Ford said Thursday. "(Hogan) has been my hero for a long time.

Quoted

"(If) he starts swinging, I'm going, man. I'm right out the door."

"When I was a little guy — the wrestling and stuff — it was good."

Ford was asked about the event while at the Ontario legislature for the swearing-in ceremony of Doug Holyday, the former deputy mayor of Toronto who was recently elected as a provincial Progressive Conservative. Specifically, Ford was asked if he had seen a scene in the movie Rocky III, in which Hogan fights Rocky.

"(If) he starts swinging, I'm going, man. I'm right out the door," Ford said, laughing. "I'm not going to sit there and take him on."

'You're not going to die.' Alberta woman describes 12 days lost in woods

Her jaw was broken, her clothes were drenched and she was face-to-face with a bear. It was the night of July 14, the first of 12 the woman — whose name Metro is withholding because police allege she is the victim of a sexual assault — would spend lost in the bush in rural Alberta.

According to RCMP, the woman had been sexually assaulted hours before by a friend after the truck they were travelling in became stuck. It's alleged he punched her in the face, breaking her jaw, but she managed to escape.

Speaking for the first time since the incident on Thursday, the woman said she became disoriented after she was hurt. Then the rain started coming down.

"I found a den," she said. "I went inside and then a bear came. She smelled me up.... I kept my eyes locked (on her), I didn't even want to blink."

The victim claims the bear then walked away but she continued to hear it nearby. By morning, it was gone.

But the ordeal was far from over. "I just kept telling myself, 'You're not going to die,'" she said.

The woman said her boyfriend is a fan of survival TV shows and she occasionally watches with him. Her father is also a hunter and had taught her some tricks about staying alive in the wilderness.

Finally, on July 26, the woman was found by an oil field worker on a rural road, just four kilometres from a major highway.

She was rushed to hospital and spent weeks recovering. Even now, her jaw is not healing properly and may require further surgery.

Still, she's just happy to be alive. "I'll never forget the bear," she said, before adding, "I have got a second chance at life and am so grateful for that."

'I am Chelsea Manning.' WikiLeaks source wants to live life as a woman

Bradley Manning plans to live as a woman named Chelsea and wants to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible, the U.S. soldier said Thursday, a day after being sentenced to 35 years in prison for the biggest leak of classified material in U.S. history.

Manning announced the decision in a written statement provided to NBC, asking supporters to refer to her by her new name and the feminine pronoun. The statement was signed "Chelsea E. Manning."

"As I transition into this next phase of my life, I want everyone to know the real me. I am Chelsea Manning. I am a female. Given the way that I feel, and have felt since childhood, I want to begin hormone therapy as soon as possible," the statement read.

Manning's defence attorney David Coombs told NBC he is hoping officials at the prison will accommodate Manning's request for hormone therapy.

In this undated photo, Bradley Manning, who now wants to be called Chelsea and live as a woman, poses wearing a wig and lipstick.
U.S. ARMY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

The army said it doesn't provide hormone therapy or sex-reassignment surgery.

"All inmates are considered soldiers and are treated as such with access to mental-health professionals, including a psychiatrist, psychologist, social workers and behavioural science non-commissioned officers," army spokesman George Wright said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE MAN WHO HACKED ZUCKERBERG

Metro World News in London

When an unemployed Palestinian programmer named Khalil Shreateh hacked into billionaire Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg's personal profile on the social network, the message he posted was respectful. "Dear Mark Zuckerberg," it began. "First sorry for breaking your privacy ..."

The 30-year-old from Hebron had discovered a glitch that allowed him to post on any wall on the network. Facebook usually provides $500 US rewards for identifying such a weakness, but did not pay out in Shreateh's case, saying that he had violated protocol. In stepped the ethical hacker community, and over $12,000 has been crowdsourced to reward the Palestinian, who was in a good mood when we spoke.

You could have written anything. Were you tempted to make the message spectacular?
No, because it was a serious vulnerability, but I was forced to write after Facebook ignored my first and second reports. I was frustrated.

Were you angry with Zuckerberg?
I admire Mark, and anyone who starts a project like that. Mark built Facebook in college, it did well, he got famous and everyone would want to be like him. I have a lot of respect.

Does this inspire you to hack more famous people and companies?
I will keep watching for new vulnerabilities and report them, as I have done many times before. I will not break anyone's privacy and hope that every hacker uses what they find the right way and not for the black market.

Is this type of hacking very popular where you're from? Will you inspire more of it?
I can't answer that because intelligence people will come after me (laughs). But many are doing this everywhere. I hope it will inspire not only in Palestine as everybody needs these skills.

How have your friends and family reacted?
I want to say thanks to the hacker community for their donations, I really appreciate it. My family was worried I would be in jail and never have another job, but I thought I was helping people.

What are you planning to do with the money?
You cannot keep money in Palestine — I am very popular now. My family want me to get married, but I don't.

Employment

Job vacancies drop in Q2: CFIB

The Canadian Federation of Independent Business says the number of job vacancies dropped slightly during the second quarter, an indication of a weaker labour market.

The group representing small and medium-sized businesses says there were 289,800 unfilled jobs in the private sector during the April-July period, a drop of about 5,000 from the previous quarter.

The estimate is higher than the 225,000 job vacancies reported by Statistics Canada in May, although the two surveys were in agreement that vacancies are dropping.

CFIB chief economist Ted Mallet says the problem appears more acute for small businesses, which have a vacancy rate more than twice that of larger firms. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some weeks you just have to shake your head.

This is one of those weeks.

1 Sarin insanity? France's foreign minister suspects that the Syrian regime has used sarin nerve gas on its own people at least once, and likely multiple times as the civil war has intensified. It's hard to even think about, never mind look at the heartbreaking pictures of little kids reportedly gassed to death. But look we must.

2 We were bored. Then there's the story out of Duncan, Okla., about three teenagers who allegedly decided to drive by someone and shoot him dead, just for fun. The unlucky random "target" was Chris Lane, a 22-year-old Australian who was out for a jog. Guns don't kill people; they just help the people who do kill people.

3 What a mother. Meanwhile, back in Canada, the grandmother of autistic teen Max Begley got an anonymous letter from a person who signed it "One pissed off mother," complaining about the noises Max makes and demanding that they move out of the neighbourhood or "euthanize him." Police refuse to consider the letter a hate crime, but a love note it ain't. There has been a gratifying outpouring of support for Max since the letter surfaced, but "pissed off mother" has so far eluded justice. She'll have to live with herself, and that can't be fun.

4 The prince of pot. In the same week we learned he'll be a father for the third time, Justin Trudeau, the heir apparent to the national throne, also said he last smoked pot three years ago. There was a time when that admission would have sent any politician's ambitions down in flames (or is that up in smoke?), but it only seems to increase the number of cool colours in his pretty aura.

5 I am NOT a Canadian. Ted Cruz, Texas Republican senator and the latest Tea Party Great Partially Hispanic Hope for President, has a birther problem. He was born in Calgary, which despite some reports, is not in the United States, and holds dual U.S.-Canadian citizenship. Obviously reluctant to invite comparisons to other Canadian politicians such as Justin Trudeau, Cruz has quickly renounced his Canadian citizenship. But if you're born in Calgary, you're one of us, eh?

6 Goodbye, Dickens of Detroit. Elmore Leonard, who apparently could only write bestsellers, including Get Shorty, which was made into a great movie starring Shorty, er, John Travolta, has died at 87. If I had a dog, I'd name it Elmore, even if it was a girl dog. His bark had plenty of bite.

A castle fit for a hedgehog

ALEXANDER ZEMLIANICHENKO JR./THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rare albinos named after Prince George

Three rare albino hedgehog babies, born on the same day as Britain's new prince, have moved into a miniature castle at a Moscow petting zoo.

George, Alexander and Louis are named after the Prince of Cambridge, who has those three names.

On Thursday, when the hedgehogs turned one month old, they were shown into their new home at the All-Russia Exhibition Centre.

It's a wooden castle with carefully carved windows, dark velvet curtains and a plush bed. A red carpet was rolled out to welcome the hedgehog family into the new home.

Zoo spokeswoman Yevgeniya Polonskaya said she hopes the Prince of Cambridge himself would one day visit the hedgehogs, and said they "have a couple of invitations set aside for him."

Synopsis

Nothing ruins a family reunion like an invasion of masked killers. On the occasion of their parents' 35th wedding anniversary, the Davidson kids and assorted significant others gather at a remote Tudor mansion — is there any other type in these kinds of movies? — to enjoy dinner and one another, but instead end up in a fight for their lives. Only one of the guests, Erin (Sharni Vinson), has the know-how to protect herself. But will it be enough?

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Home-invasion horror. Lack of redeeming social values aside, this disturbing movie will have you peeking through your fingers

Richard: Mark, I don't know what it says about me, but I really liked You're Next. It's disturbing, violent and without any redeeming social value, but I enjoyed sitting in the theatre with my hands over my eyes, afraid of what I might see next. I'm not usually a fan of head trauma, but from what I saw as I peeked through my fingers, it worked well. You?

Mark: Richard, I found it one of the best movies of its type ever. Home invasion films are my kind of scary because it could — and does — happen. But I did find some redeeming social value in it. I thought it turned out to be a sly satire on family dynamics and materialism. Without revealing too many plot twists — and I loved them all — this movie starts as one thing and becomes something a little deeper. And, yes, I don't like to admit it, but I was scared through and through.

RC: It's hard to discuss without giving away a major plot twist, but I will say there is a Manson Family aspect to the story that really creeped me out. That and the anxiety-inducing John Carpenter style score throbbing in the background. It's all effective but it is the idea behind the movie that is truly disturbing.

MB: Let's not leave out the creepy animal masks! And I learned a lot from the movie, like how much can be accomplished with a two-by-four and a simple set of nails. In fact, I just got back from the hardware store. I'm ready!

RC: It is a lesson in survivalism to be sure, but keep in mind how it works out for everyone. I think I'll stick to calling 911. Lessons aside, I did like that while there are a number of hysterical characters here — who wouldn't be upset when your friends and family are being randomly murdered? — the hero, if you can use that word to describe someone who kills a person with a blender, is a woman. So often in these movies women are the scream queens while the men do the heavy lifting. Here, the only person with any self-preservation instincts is female.

MB: I think a blender is a perfect murder weapon for a woman — very Martha Stewart, in fact. Yes, this movie does have a strong woman at its centre, and it's set up nicely in the beginning, with the family sneering at her for her survivalist training.

Comedy

The World's End

Director. Edgar Wright

Stars. Simon Pegg, Nick Frost, Martin Freeman

A teenage pub crawl with four mates was the highlight of Gary King's (Simon Pegg) life. Twenty years later an attempt to relive that past glory becomes less about nostalgia and more about survival when the locals are revealed to be robots. Entertaining and inventive, The World's End isn't as laugh-out-loud funny as the first two parts of director Edgar Wright's trilogy, Shaun of the Dead and Hot Fuzz, but its thematic core — the difficulty of growing up — makes it the most mature of his films.

RICHARD CROUSE

Comedy/Romance

I Give it a Year

Director. Dan Mazer

Stars. Rose Byrne, Rafe Spall, Alex Macqueen

I Give it a Year follows the usual romcom formula. After a whirlwind romance Josh (Rafe Spall) and Nat (Rose Byrne) marry, but soon discover their union may not be a match made in heaven. Complicating things are Chloe (Anna Faris), Josh's ex-girlfriend, and Nat's new client, the handsome and flirtatious Guy (Simon Baker). There's no need for more plot details, because you already know how it ends. Fortunately, what it lacks in surprises it makes up for with charming performances from the leads as well as Minnie Driver and Stephen Merchant. RICHARD CROUSE

Filmmaker Wong Kar Wai takes on the Grandmaster

China's past gets intense makeover. Chinese director gives an action movie spin to the history of modern kung fu with The Grandmaster

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Chinese filmmaker Wong Kar Wai takes a fantastical look at the history of his nation through the lens of kung fu with The Grandmaster, about Yip Man (Tony Leung), the father of modern kung fu who eventually taught Bruce Lee. But first, according to the film, he had to wrestle with China's changing political climate and go through a lot of gorgeously staged fights.

This film is "inspired by a true story." How much historical accuracy did you go for?
It's quite accurate. The only thing I invented was the character of Gong Er (played by Zhang Ziyi). This is a fictional figure, it's not a real person. But in fact this character is based on several remarkable women at that time. When China was going through the changes from the monarchy to the republic, there were a lot of great men, and at the same time there were also remarkable women coming from all walks of life. Before then women were taking a much more minor role.

Tony Leung Chiu Wai stars in The Grandmaster. HANDOUT

The film examines how kung fu used to be incredibly exclusionary — solely an upper class pursuit.
In the traditional sense, martial arts were not for poor people. To practise martial arts you needed to be extremely wealthy because you couldn't do anything else. You had to practise — like, they had specific hours, like three o'clock in the morning and then three o'clock in the afternoon. Not too hot, not too cold. And then there are so many formalities. People visit you, you have to have a big party. When they leave, you have to send them with gifts. All these expenses, it's a big thing.

What does the Chinese film industry make of Hollywood films like Iron Man 3 participating more with the country's filmmaking world and audience? A welcome growth or a threat?
I always find it very silly to say, "As we are invaded by Hollywood" because we've been in this business for a long time. The only thing that's important is to keep the audience coming back to the cinema.

GLAAD study. Group finds that LGBT people still underrepresented on the big screen

We may be seeing more prominent gay and lesbian characters on TV shows, but the movie industry lags well behind the small screen, an advocacy group reports.

In its first study of LGBT roles in major studio releases, the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation found that compared with TV, where there has been a significant shift over the past decade, "major studios appear reluctant to include LGBT characters in significant roles or franchises."

In its report released Wednesday, GLAAD found that of the 101 releases from Hollywood's six major studios in 2012, just 14 included characters identified as lesbian, gay, or bisexual. Most were no more than cameos or minor roles, it said — and none of the films tracked had transgender characters.

ParaNorman got props from GLAAD for its character Mitch, a football hero who references a boyfriend. CONTRIBUTED

"Until LGBT characters appear more regularly in these studio films, there will be the appearance of bias," said Wilson Cruz, GLAAD's national spokesperson, in an interview. He added that his organization will be meeting with studio executives to discuss the findings.

The report — called the 2013 Studio Responsibility Index — rates each of the six studios according to the number of LGBT-inclusive films they released. Faring worst: 20th Century Fox and Disney, which each receive "failing" grades; the other four — Paramount, Sony, Universal and Warner Bros. — receive grades of "adequate."

Asked in advance Tuesday afternoon about the report, the studios had no immediate comment.

Inclusive animation

One of the best examples of an LGBT-inclusive film in 2012, according to GLAAD, was, interestingly, an animated family film: ParaNorman, about a misunderstood boy who can communicate with the ghosts of dead people. In the film, which came from the Portland-based studio LAIKA, Norman's cheerleader sister asks the hunky football hero Mitch for a movie date. He casually makes a reference to his boyfriend.

Cheesy horror rears its ugly head — again

End of summer. There's something about the entry into fall that leaves us craving freaky flicks

If the beginning of summer is for big tent-pole blockbusters featuring Hollywood's highest-ranking stars, then August is surely the dumping ground for low-grade horror hokum. Spawning such spine-chilling releases as Cujo, Jeepers Creepers and Fright Night, the eighth month is pretty spooky.

Horror Highs

Freddy vs. Jason (2003)
This official mash-up of legendary franchises Nightmare on Elm Street and Friday the 13th may not have exactly earned the respect of film critics, but for fans of fright flicks, it was a nightmare-come-true. Plus, there's no denying its $80 million take at the box-office substantiates its status.

You're Next (in theatres this weekend)
This year's entry into the August annals of horror cinema, You're Next holds much promise. It was picked up in a bidding war after it screened at the Toronto International Film Festival. Favourable early reviews about the thriller's fresh spin on the home invasion premise add to the optimistic outlook — not to mention a few hair-raising scares.

Scary Lows

Piranha 3D (2010)
Nobody was expecting this cheesy remake to see Oscar recognition, but the schlocky shocker about a lake terrorized by man-eating piranha is more about skin than scares. STEVE GOW/METRO

Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz ALL IMAGES GETTY

Diaz and Segel keep us all guessing in the Hamptons

While Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel did enjoy a dinner together in the Hamptons this week, apparently Life & Style magazine's claim that it was a date was a bit off-base. "Jason and Cameron were not romantic at all towards each other; very casual and friendly," a source tells E! News, adding that they were joined at upscale restaurant Nick & Toni's by another gentleman. The friends and Bad Teacher co-stars were also spotted shopping for groceries together earlier that day.

Brandy's ego bruised as she plays to empty stadium

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Poor Brandy.
The singer performed to an empty, 90,000-capacity stadium last weekend in Johannesburg, South Africa, as part of the Mandela Sports & Culture Day. Due to poor publicity, the crowd left after the football and rugby matches, not realizing — or maybe they did? — that Brandy was set to perform. Per the tweet of @Kabomo, a South African musician, "Brandy performed to an empty stadium. With the stadium lights on. She sulked after two songs and walked off." Which, you know, is more than I would have done. I would have looked out and hightailed it to a bar where I would then sit for the next 30 years of my life and think about how it all went wrong.

Kanye West

Lawsuit against Kanye in pipeline after he allegedly punched paparazzo

Kanye West is facing a lawsuit from a paparazzo over allegedly attacking him outside Los Angeles International Airport, according to TMZ. Plaintiff Daniel Ramos claims that "without warning or provocation," West "suddenly attacked, punching (the plaintiff) and attempting to wrestle the camera from" Ramos' hands, according to the filing. Ramos' attorney, Gloria Allred, claims that Ramos fell to his knees on the ground "with enough force that he sustained injuries to his right hip, as well as accompanying pain and emotional distress." He is seeking unspecified damages.

Hot dogs must hate hamburgers. Though they're the yin and yang of the home barbecue scene, take a step off your deck and gourmet burgers are selling for a premium at fancy boutique restos while dogs are relegated to the kids menu.

Not that hot dogs can't hold their own when it comes to haute cuisine. In my mind, the whole concept of a meal in an elongated bun was designed for getting creative with elaborate toppings (and I'm not just talking mustard, relish and ketchup).

Finding a wine that will stand strong against a barrage of eclectic flavours piled on top of a well-cooked wiener is a challenge worthy of The Amazing Race.

I like the versatility of the moscato grape. Originating in Italy, it's synonymous with a slightly sweet style of white wine that's become the darling of winemakers the world over.

Australians love it, and Jacob's Creek 2012 Moscato ($9.95 to $13.49) offers a lightly tropical mix of melon and pineapple that's a perfect foil for anything that will add a spicy, sharp, salty or sweet layer across your designer dog. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Stanley Park 125th Anniversary

This weekend, head to one of Vancouver's most iconic parks and be sure to check out a park party like no other. Featuring five different festival zones, there is definitely something for everyone. Looking for more info? Visit: vancouver.ca/parks-recreation-culture/stanley-park-125.aspx.

50 Portraits in 15 Days

Be sure to meander by this unique project and artistic endeavour courtesy of Sarah Fougere. Back in Vancouver again and running until Saturday Sept. 7. Fougere is on a quest to create as many individual portraits as possible in just more than two weeks. Paintings are done using a 12 by 12 frame and anyone can get involved and participate as part of her project (fee applies per sitting). Visit: backgalleryproject.com for details.

Recently Opened: Tap & Barrel

If you're on the hunt for a new post-work watering hole that also happens to afford a luxury view of the North Shore Mountains, this is your fix. There are several patio areas to choose from (one being covered and suitable for the inevitable coming months of spotty weather), while another sits perched overlooking the harbour activity. More information at tapandbarrel.com.

Swim upstream for some salmon

Celebrate the return of the pink salmon and be sure to head over to Vanier Park for a culinary treat featuring this celebrated fish. Starting at noon on Sunday and going until 5 p.m., you'll have the opportunity to taste test your way around, sampling specially prepared salmon courtesy of local chefs. Helping spice things up even more, enjoy live entertainment, educational seminars and plenty of other activities. visit psf.ca.

Just Opened: Krokodile Pear Cold Pressed Organic Juice

Healthy Vancouver living has been taken to new heights since the opening of this organic cold-pressed juice and smoothie bar in Kitsilano (to the hardcore yogi's delight). If you can't decide what to order, try a flight of freshly pressed juice (only $6). Menu and store info can be found here: facebook.com/krokodilepear.

Coming Up: Victoria Secret's Opening Aug. 29

The much-anticipated opening of Victoria's Secret's first official Vancouver storefront is almost upon us. As the second largest location worldwide, this is definitely worth noting, so be sure to check it out before tweens wreak havoc on the sprawling location.

NHL

Canucks re-sign defencemen Tanev, Alberts

The Vancouver Canucks have locked up defenceman Chris Tanev with just a few weeks remaining until training camp.

Tanev, 23, had been a restricted free agent. The deal is for one year and worth $1.5 million.

Last season, Tanev scored twice — his first two goals in the National Hockey League — and had seven points in 38 regular-season games.

Tanev was never drafted, but signed as a free agent in May of 2010.

A year later, he found himself playing for the Canucks during their run to the Stanley Cup Final.

Since the 2010-11 season, Tanev has played 92 career NHL games.

"You always want to get it done as quickly as you can," Tanev told Team 1040 radio about the new contract.

"Obviously it took a little bit longer than we'd like, but it's awesome to have it done and focus on hockey here as we move forward (heading) towards camp."

Later in the day, the Canucks also announced they had re-signed defenceman Andrew Alberts to a one-year deal worth a reported $600,000.

Whitecaps vet DeMerit could play on Saturday

MLS. Return of centre back would be a welcome addition in conference showdown

CAM TUCKER
cam.tucker@metronews.ca

This is a significant weekend for Jay DeMerit, especially off the pitch but now perhaps on it as well.

DeMerit, the Vancouver Whitecaps veteran centre back, will tie the knot with Ashleigh McIvor, a Canadian Olympic gold medallist in 2010, at a ceremony in Whistler on Sunday.

Then came the news from Vancouver's head coach Martin Rennie that "there is a chance" DeMerit, out since March 2 with a ruptured Achilles tendon, could be available for selection when the Whitecaps host the L.A. Galaxy in a pivotal Western Conference showdown at BC Place Stadium on Saturday.

"He's definitely looking good in training and we'll decide that tomorrow," said Rennie on Thursday.

Almost there

"It's that last step where you can feel yourself getting fit, but you can also feel yourself still rusty."
Whitecaps centre back Jay DeMerit

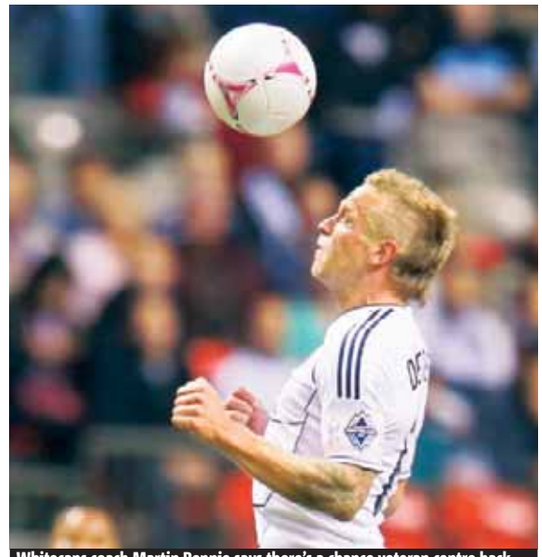
The Whitecaps sit in the fifth and final playoff spot in the West and are one point back of the Galaxy in the standings.

DeMerit had previously targeted this game as his return.

"That's up to the manager," DeMerit said about the possibility of selection into the 18-man squad.

"My job is to continue to try and get sharper. Whether that's through playing games or trying to mimic games in the training setting, that's up to the decision makers in our club."

DeMerit, who underwent surgery two days after the injury occurred, has been training with the club for the better part of a month.



Whitecaps coach Martin Rennie says there's a chance veteran centre back Jay DeMerit will return on Saturday. JEFF VINNICK/GETTY IMAGES FILE

He's been taking part in scrimmages during training, trying to get back to a level where he can return.

The process of recovery has been a long one. The end appears to be near.

Als rookie QB Marsh shocks Lions in 4th

Rookie quarterback Tanner Marsh had confidence in the hands of receiver Eric Deslauriers.

But to Deslauriers, Marsh's pass was a work of art.

Sean Whyte kicked a 14-yard field goal on the final play of the game after Marsh threw a 57-yard pass to Deslauriers with 1.9 seconds remaining to give Montreal a come-from-behind 39-38 win over the B.C. Lions on Thursday night.

Marsh's last-gasp pass to Deslauriers at the seven-yard line set up the improbable comeback as the Alouettes overcame a 28-14 deficit before what remained of a crowd of 22,456 on a rainy night at Molson Stadium.

"I'll give him a jump ball every single time," said Marsh, who replaced Josh Neiswander to begin Montreal's fourth offensive series. "He's a great athlete and makes plays when he needs to."

"It was such a pretty ball," Deslauriers said. "It was just up there forever."

Marsh threw for 329 yards despite completing only 14 of 32 pass attempts, including four interceptions.

Tim Brown returned a missed field goal 124 yards for a touchdown early in the third quarter and Travis Lulay threw a pair of touchdowns to Shawn Gore for B.C. (5-3), which had won two in a row.

Olympic hockey. High insurance costs keeping Canadian team off the ice

Steve Yzerman would prefer to get Canada's players on the ice at the upcoming orientation camp for the Olympic men's hockey team.

But the price tag to insure players against injury is too high for Hockey Canada, so the four-day camp starting Sunday in Calgary will consist of informational meetings about the Games in Sochi, Russia, and fostering team chemistry off the ice.

"Not going on the ice isn't the end of the world," says Yzerman, the executive director of the national men's team. "There's lot of other things that need to be done in preparation, logistically going through how we're going to get there, where we'll stay ... drug-testing policy, a lot of informational things we need to go through and get out of the way."

Forty-seven players are scheduled to arrive in Calgary on Sunday and head to Hockey Canada's headquarters at Canada Olympic Park on the city's west side. Canada can take three goaltenders and 22 skaters to Sochi.

It's up to each country's federation to insure NHL players against injury at summer camps.

Hockey Canada president Bob Nicholson has said that would cost more than $1 million for the invited 47, whose combined 2013-14 salaries total $259 million, according to capgeek.com. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Beach volleyball

Nationals come to Vancouver

The 2013 Beach Volleyball National Championships are set for Spanish Banks in Vancouver, beginning Friday.

The event comes to a close on Sunday.

Surrey's Megan and Nicole McNamara, 16-year-old identical twins, will compete for senior gold at the event, after winning back-to-back 16U and 18U national championships. METRO

MLB

Yankees continue to dominate Jays

Andy Pettitte pitched six effective innings, Curtis Granderson homered, and the New York Yankees beat Toronto 5-3 on Thursday after a 3 1/2-hour rain delay for their 10th straight victory against the Blue Jays.

New York improved to 12-1 against Toronto this season. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
A colleague may be a bit pushy today and your first instinct will be to push back. Don't. It will be counter-productive, not least because they have more power than you. Stay calm and fit in with their needs.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Are you working too hard? According to the planets you are and the best thing you can do today is take an hour off from your schedule to review what you are trying to achieve.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
This should be a wonderful time for you and if it isn't, it soon will be. A few days from now, your world will be turned on its head and you'll be standing the right way up!

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Family issues will take up a lot of your time today and the sooner you deal with them, the sooner you will be free to do your own thing. Loved ones won't be as difficult to talk to as you appear to believe.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
You need to get out more. Short trips will be especially beneficial today and over the weekend. You may encounter one or two less than friendly people but you will meet many more who delight you.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Mercury, your ruler, joins the Sun in your sign today, making this potentially one of the best long weekends of the year. Personally and professionally you'll soon be moving ahead.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
The thing you fear most is the thing you should be doing the most. That may not be what you want to hear but there it is. Once you take that first step, the rest will come easy.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You sometimes expect too much of yourself and then feel depressed when your efforts fall short. If so you feel that now, lower your expectations and learn to live with who you are.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
If you get the chance to join forces with like-minded people today, take it. Yes, you may have to give up some freedom but in return you'll get the opportunity to change the world.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
With Mercury, planet of the mind, joining the Sun in one of the best areas of your chart, you have a clear idea what it is you want to accomplish — and the personal and professional tools to make it happen.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
The planets urge you to think the unthinkable today. But keep in mind that thinking and doing do not always go together at the same time. The more you think now, the more success you will enjoy later.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You like to see the best in people but the planets warn that today you should operate on the assumption that no one is on your side. It may not be true but you cannot afford to take chances. SALLY BROMPTON
